VINTAGE IS THE NEW BLACK
STUDENT EXPLORATION OF FASHION HISTORY

JANUARY 12 - FEBRUARY 13
CURATED BY ASHLEY HASTY, PH.D

THE EXHIBIT
Items in this exhibition are products of an upper-level fashion history assignment taught in the Apparel Merchandising and Interior Design Department at Indiana University. The instructor, Dr. Ashley Hasty, applied a constructivist learning approach. Constructivism holds that curriculum is not isolated from the rest of our lives; learning is contextually informed by our existing beliefs and knowledge. Consistent with this approach, Dr. Hasty created an assignment allowing students to design and develop an interpretation of course material through projects related to their personal lives and career goals.

RECEPTION
JANUARY 16TH
6-8 PM

ON VIEW
JAN 12 - FEB 13, 2014
FREE TO THE PUBLIC

LOCATION
IUCA+D
310 JACKSON ST,
COLUMBUS, IN 47201

THE CURATOR
Dr. Ashley Hasty received her Bachelor of Science in fashion marketing and management from Stephens College and her M.S. and PhD in textile and apparel management from the University of Missouri. Her pedagogical philosophy focuses on fostering creativity and collaboration through innovative uses of technology. Her courses include active learning techniques and service-learning. Currently, Dr. Hasty teaches Brand Management and Advertising, Strategies in Retail Promotion, and History of Fashion at Indiana University. She also researches historical wedding garments, with particular interest in the era of the Second World War.